Dear Colleagues,

We are now glad to release the second issue of the fifth volume. In this issue, we have six articles and a book review. With appearing issues of IJESE, we are receiving an increasing number of manuscripts every month, from diverse regions of the globe. This contributes to increase the quality of the articles published in IJESE and has also been led that the journal has been accepted for indexing in popular index centers such as ERIC and DOAJ. I believe that IJESE will be accepted by the other indexes in the near future and will capture interests of researchers to publish their scholarly works.

I would like to welcome new editorial board members: Dr. Laura Barraza (Deakin University), Dr. Hye-Eun Chu (Nanyang Technological University), Dr. Muammer Çalık (Karadeniz Technical University), Dr. Mehmet Erdogan (Akdeniz University), and Dr. Myint Swe Khine (Emirates College for Advanced Education). In addition, Professor Paul Webb, a member of our editorial board member, is now a book review editor. They will contribute to the journal.

I believe that the IJESE will have a more prominent place in science and environmental education. I would like to thank all of our authors, reviewers and diligent editorial board members for their significant efforts.

We are looking forward to receiving your valuable contributions in the coming issues.
